

Guidelines for ICIAM 07 Proceedings Authors (updated)

Invited plenary ICIAM 07 lectures will be published by the EMS Publishing House, www.ems-ph.org.

More details will follow on the Web page www.iciam07.ch/proceedings.

Publications on talks in minisymposia and contributed sessions (and likewise on talks presented at GAMM minisymposia or sessions of GAMM sections, may be published in PAMM, an electronic journal on Wiley's web server Wiley-InterScience.

The papers need to be prepared in accordance with the Author's Instructions for Publication of Contributions to Minisymposia and Short Communications given below. The papers are all limited to 2 pages. Longer papers cannot be accepted. The editors reserve the right to deny publication of a manuscript based on a referee's judgment. The files have to be submitted by 31 October 2007 using the Web site www.iciam07.ch/pamm/.

To facilitate and speed up the publication process, the following requirements are mandatory for all contributions to PAMM.

- Manuscripts must be delivered in \LaTeX using the sample file `proceed.tex` available in due time from www.iciam07.ch/pamm/.

Figures must be included in \LaTeX source code or as eps or tiff files. It will be impossible to process contributions that are not in \LaTeX or for which the figures are not included electronically. An example of a contribution will be provided.

- Manuscripts are limited to the number of pages given above. Longer manuscripts will be rejected.
- Please submit your manuscript including all figures via the Internet. Details on how to prepare them (author's instructions) will be given on the above specified Web page. This Web page will also contain detailed information on how to submit the files.
- The manuscripts will be reviewed and in case of acceptance forwarded to the publisher. It will then be published as is, without modifications to text and style. Thus, it should be ready for publication both in terms of content and style.